When You
Don't Know
Ask Haskin

Five letters sent to the Gazette Information Bureau at Washington last week show the varying interests of Gazette readers.

A woman writer wants to know if there is a standard breed of black and white St. Bernard dogs and how much a six months' old dog should weigh. To which Frederick J. Has-kin makes answer that black and white St. Bernard dogs have long white hair with black and tawny spots.

There are a few of these dogs at the present time. St. Bernard dogs at the moment should weigh from 50 to 75 pounds.

A history of the families of Ire-an and retired farmer, died at 8:30 o'clock last evening at the home of his daughter, Mrs. L. C. Walker, 1015

N. Franklin street, following a short illness. He will be buried in the family lot at Darlington, his old home, tomorrow.

Born in Danbury, N. Y., in 1833
Mr. Gray lived a life replete with the thrills, experiences, and trials of the western pioneer, and a revolutionary war.

He was a leader of men especially in the military. He came west by the lakes and land in the early '50s settling near Belmont, Wis.

Among his ancestors, John Gray was one of the first settlers in New England coming from England in 1625 to settle in Salem, Mass. Another ancestor, William, son of John Gray, was one of the "Green
Boys" during the Revolutionary war.

Filled with spirit, of his liberty loving forefathers, Warren Gray was drawn to enlist in the northern forces at the outbreak of the Civil war. He organized a platoon at Belmont, Wis., and served in the army and navy during the war.

He joined the northern forces three years after his marriage to Emily Wallace. She died in Janesville in 1910.

entific wedding anniversary the other

COAL SITUATION IS HELD ALARMING

Janesville Invited to Send Men to Big Northwest Conference.

Apprehensive of fuel conditions which will exist throughout the northwest next winter unless something is done immediately, the Milwaukee Chamber of Commerce has appealed to the interstate commerce commission for a conference. Janesville has been invited to send representatives to the session which is proposed to hold in Superior at an early date. Similar invitations have been sent to all other leading cities of the state as well as Duluth, St. Paul and Minneapolis.

The American Gas Association, of which the New Gas Light company of this city is a member, alarmed over the situation, has filed with Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer a protest against the present heavy coal exports. It asks an immediate reduction in the volume of coal being exported.

Milwaukee is alarmed and wants immediate action. Coal docks there are almost barren.

45,000,000 Affected

The appeal of the gas association reads in part as follows: "The alarming conditions which now so generally prevail in the matter of the coal supply and the consequent shortage of fuel for the winter of this country. Few gas companies are able to do more than obtain an amount of coal necessary for immediate operations. It is impossible, therefore, for them to accumulate a reserve supply to carry them through the period of reduced transportation that is to be expected with the coming winter. Approximately 45,000,000 people are dependent directly or indirectly upon a continuous gas service for the preparation of their food and other vital domestic purposes. It is needless to point out the widespread suffering that must inevitably result from any curtailment in the supply of gas to the general public.

See Possible Suffering

The American Gas association recognizes that European countries are in a large measure dependent upon the United States for coal, and that suffering will ensue if this source of supply is closed. But acute conditions which have come upon us, threatening even greater suffering to our own people unless all possible measures are made use of to bring about a stable condition in the coal supply and provide shipment of coal in quantities sufficient not only for immediate needs in the case of gas companies, but sufficient to allow an accumulation of a reserve supply necessary to enable these companies to continue their indispensable public service through the coming winter."

DIVORCEE TO BE QUIZZED AGAIN IN ELWELL MYSTERY

Miss Viola Kraus.

Recent dispatches concerning the mystery surrounding the shooting to death of Joseph B. Elwell, sportsman and whist expert, stated that authorities planned to question again Miss Viola Kraus. Miss Kraus, divorced wife of Victor Von Schlegel, was a member of a dinner party which Elwell attended the night before he was killed.

FRISCO PREPARES FOR CONVENTION

Few Leaders Present; Wet and Dry Fight to Be Paramount.

[By Associated Press.] San Francisco, June 22.—While hotels today began to take on an appearance of a national political convention but few of the democratic chieftains who will figure in the party's quadrennial gathering next week had reached the convention city.

Direct developments of the day were confined to preparation of the convention, but there was much discussion as to elements that would be involved in shaping the party platform and sticking little talk about candidates.

Wet and Dry Talk.

Out of the talk of the day came an increasing rumble of "wet" and "dry" maneuvers. No definite statements were obtainable from leaders, but it was clear that they looked forward to a fight over efforts to make the democratic platform advocate modification of the prohibition amendment.

Some observers said the "drys" would control the resolutions committee by a sufficient margin to insure defeat of any wet plank on the committee draft.

Jap Question Serious. The league of nations issue did not fill a prominent place in talk among the leaders today but possibility of a struggle over Japanese exclusion was suggested after Gov. Stephens' letter to Secretary Colby declaring the situation serious in California, had been read.

There was no marked activity among supporters of men seeking the presidential nomination. Posters urging the claims of Attorney General Palmer began to appear and workers in behalf of Gov. Cox of Ohio and other aspirants were beginning to arrive.

CROPS FOR LATE PLANTINGS

Rush, String, or Snap Beans May be Planted Up to July 15. Late Summer Plantings of Green Peas, Pot Herbs or Greens Advisable.

(Written for the United States School Garden Army)

Success in gardening depends largely upon keeping the soil busy throughout the season. After the first early crops are gathered there is still time to plant others. The extent to which this can be done depends largely upon the latitude, but even in the more northern states planting may be continued well into July.

One of the greatest dangers in late planting is that in a dry season there may not be moisture enough in the soil to give the crops a rapid growth. It is desirable in such cases to water the garden so thoroughly from a hose or pump that the supply of moisture will be replenished. This should be done before the seeds are sown to prevent washing them out and to get a thorough soaking.

The soil should also be spaded and raked or plowed and harrowed before replanting. This will put the particles in good condition for plant roots and help to prevent the evaporation of moisture. A light dressing of commercial fertilizer raked in will hasten growth.

Bush, string or snap beans are among the best food producing garden crops. The early varieties will begin to yield pods for cooking 60 days after planting. Consequently in any locality where the killing serious pose will lead all others. The photograph shows clearly that the young actor, whose chief claim to fame hitherto has been his ability to hurl custard pies and perform put falls, really has his moments of stabilizing gravity. Keaton has long been known as Paddy Arbuckle's toll, and previous to that he was in vaudeville with the "Three Keatons," where he was a foil for his mother and father.

Fresh from slapstick, Buster was engaged by Metro to do the part of Bertie, the lamb in "The Saphend," which is the title given the picture of Winchell Smith's and Victor Jope's play, "The New Heirletta." He expects to follow this high comedy characterization with a series of laughing two-reelers which will be released through Metro.

The DIARY OF AN ENGAGED GIRL

COUSIN CECIL STILL REMAINS A PROBLEM.

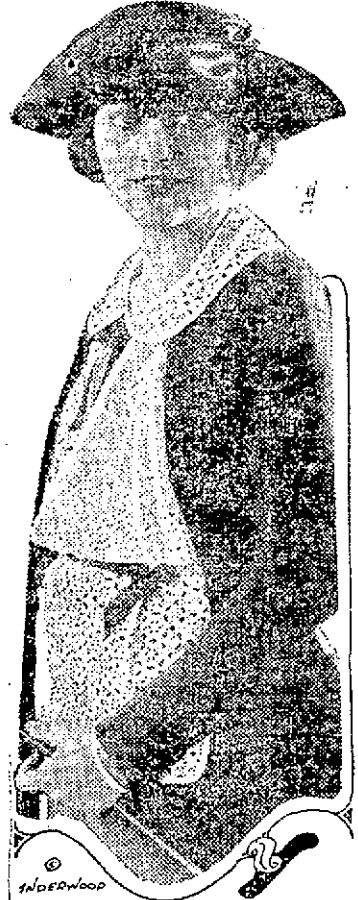

Wonders will never cease: neither will scandals. It seems that one of the stuffy stations that our train stopped at as I descended for a breath of air, and while standing peacefully on the platform, I heard my name called in a strangely familiar and masculine voice. I looked up and there stood Cecil himself, up-and-down, and he ran down towards me.

I confess that I almost passed out from excitement and or something akin to that, to dare to follow me after all that had occurred at home, still might be an intimation of his real courage. I did, for I am true female all through.

There was nothing for me to do under the circumstances but to stand rather coolly and look my ardent young cousin up and down, questioning him. Did it bother you, little book, everything I do seems to thrill him and egg him on. I fancy this is the real form of true love. It is terrifying to the very young.

Dear, oh dear, that mad boy had in some way found out that I was being sent up to Boston, in solitary confinement, or words to that effect, and he simply couldn't see it, and here I do not know what is to be done with him. I am finished for it. This leaves Cecil, who does not, or suspect—that's what a family is for, after all. I think, Cecil, that proving Cecil is part of the family proper (no, improper), and he sits and stares at me, and I know not what to do with him, which is worse. And Boston only 50 miles away! (To be continued)

PEEK-A-BOO VESTEE FOR SUIT OR FROCK

The vestee, which was one of the most important dress accessories during the spring before last, is coming to the fore to take a prominent place in all summer wardrobes. Many of the newer summer frocks are featuring vests and gilets of organdy, lace or georgette. It is hard to say just what is the more popular, but it is safe to say that organdy is never a mistake this summer no matter what use is made of it. To be really different, however, which is what many women strive for, one should have collar and cuffs sets of gingham, calico or openwork embroidery. The collar and cuffs neckwear is very effective on white summer suits or dark serge frocks or suits. The white openwork vestees are appropriate for any type of frock or suit in any color.

What could be more charming or appropriate for summer than this dainty vestee with collar attached? It is made of English openwork embroidery. With the collar, blouse effect and peplum there is no need of a shirtwaist when this vest is worn, and if the coat is kept on it makes a charming finish for the costume.

Narrow black grosgrain ribbon is used at the neck and belt and forms a pretty contrast. If the vestee is worn with colored linen suits or frocks it would be possible to have the ribbon trimming match the frock or suit. The beauty about this neckwear is that it can be readily made at home, only care must be taken to fit the collar perfectly for there is nothing which detracts so much from an effect as an ill-fitting collar.

WITH THE WOMEN OF TODAY

The distinction of being the first woman to head a state delegation to a national convention is enjoyed by Mrs. Manley L. Fosseen of Minneapolis. Mrs. Fosseen was elected delegate-at-large by acclamation at the Minnesota republican convention recently held in St. Paul.

Mrs. Fosseen is a very motherly and charming woman, the kind one never expects to see in politics, but the kind one always hopes will enter public life. She has long been active in suffrage work and is president of the Minnesota League of Women Voters. Her husband is a prominent attorney of Minneapolis and was a former member of the Minnesota state senate.

ABOUT WOMEN LAWYERS
Since Montana has been admitted to the union her supreme court has granted licenses to 40 women to practice law, not a few of whom are still appearing at the bar as advocates, while several have lucratively obtained positions in the larger centers of the state.

The late Ella K. Knowles was the first woman to be admitted to the bar in Montana on Dec. 25, 1889. She was a prominent figure in Montana life at the time. She entered the political field far in advance of her cohorts of family who are now voting. Miss Knowles campaigned actively against Henry J. Haskell of Glendive, who was elected attorney general. Knowles, a broken advocate of the court room, she practiced law in Butte for many years.

Between 1889 and 1911 there were five women admitted and in the last seven years 16 have been admitted.

STARTLING STATISTICS
We hear the major part of the burden of Japan's sudden industrial expansion, where they form two-thirds of the 20,000 recruited annually from the rural districts, 120,000 never return, 80,000 are broken in health, 14,000 are consumptive; 82 per cent of workers under 15 years of age are girls; in many factories and

LADY DUFF-COOPER EDITOR MAGAZINE

Lady Duff-Cooper, who as Lady Diana Manners was credited with being the best advertised woman in England, has become editor of the English edition of the French magazine "Femina." In this, however, she will not be putting from tradition, for the Manners family has always had strong literary taste. Her mother, the Duchess of Rutland, published "Trails of Men and Women," and goes in a great deal for drawing, sculpture and photography.

CARNIVAL OWNER IS UP FOR GAMBLING

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Racine, June 22.—L. J. Meth, owner of the carnival company which has been operating at Lakeside, was brought into court Monday in connection with the charges made last week by District Attorney Adolph Janocky, that gambling had been going on at the carnival site despite his orders to County Sheriff Lutter to enforce the law. Meth denies that he had any knowledge of gambling on the carnival grounds and was released on a bond of $300, the case being set for June 23.

The case against a 15 year old youth who had been arrested charged with gambling was dismissed after the lad had given testimony. A sister of the boy testified that she had been told by Sheriff Lutter to ask the district attorney to drop the case inasmuch as the money her brother had lost had been returned.

In Pennsylvania it is against the law for girls to work around the anthracite coal mines.

Russian Officer Desires Closer Relations With U. S.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Sebastopol, June 22.—Closer relations between Russia and the United States are desired by General Baron Wrangel, commander of the south Russian volunteer army, he declared today. He said the United States had "shown itself a champion of real democracy by intervening in the great war," and said he hoped worthy Russian students might attend American universities. General Wrangel believes new Russia will be a highly centralized state and that much latitude will be given the many races of the country to govern themselves.

Steamer, Ice Bound for 3 Months, Is Rescued

Christiania, June 22.—A wireless from the captain of the ice breaker Svalofog, sent to the relief of the Arctic, says that the Svalofog found the Solovoi and took aboard the latter's full equipment. When the Solovoi was caught in the ice, more than three months ago, it was feared the 80 persons aboard would perish for lack of fuel and food.

TESTED RECIPES

Welsh Rarebit—Bread toasted on one side, one-half pound mild soft cheese, one tablespoon butter or substitute, one-quarter teaspoon salt, few grains of red pepper, dash black pepper, one-third cup milk or cream, one egg.

Cut cheese in small pieces. Melt butter, add cheese and seasoning. As cheese melts, add milk gradually while stirring constantly, then egg slightly beaten. It should be smooth and creamy, stringy. Serve on one side of bread not toasted.

Asparagus Salad—Boll asparagus until tender; drain.
Cut rings from a bright red pepper, one-third inch wide. Place three or four stalks of asparagus in each ring. Arrange on lettuce leaves and serve with French dressing to which has been added one-half teaspoon tomato catsup.

Banana Salad—Slice bananas lengthwise and sprinkle with nuts. Ground peanuts are good. Use a few drops of lemon juice and serve with mayonnaise. Garnish with lettuce.

Prime Whip—One-third pound butter, whites of five eggs, one-half cup sugar, one-half teaspoon lemon juice.

Pick over and wash prunes, then soak several hours in cold water to remove stones and rub prunes through a strainer; add sugar and cook five minutes; the mixture should be of the consistency of mar-malade.

Beat whites of eggs until stiff, add prune mixture gradually when cold and lemon juice. Pile lightly on buttered pudding dish, bake 20 minutes in slow oven.
Serve cold with boiled custard. Half this recipe serves four persons.

SWEETS

Delicious Fruit Filling for Cakes—Four tablespoons finely chopped citron, four tablespoons finely chopped seeded raisins, one-half cup blanched almonds chopped fine, one-quarter pound finely chopped eggs.
Beat the whites of three eggs to a stiff froth. Add one-half cup sugar, then mix in the chopped ingredients. Fill between layers of cake and on top while cake is hot so as to cook the egg a little.

Jani Cake—One cup sugar, three-quarters cup butter, three eggs, two cups flour, one cup raspberry jam, one teaspoon cloves, one teaspoon cinnamon, one scant tablespoon soda in three tablespoons sour milk.

Fruit Tarts—Line muffin tins with pastry, bake fill with any kind of cut fruit and the filling after you line them with the paste and bake. If you add uncooked fruit such as apples, add sugar and a little cream and cream over your favorite flavor. This is cheaper than pies and a nice dessert.

To make pastry for this: Two cups of flour and one cup lard or substitute. Mix well, add pinch of salt; work thoroughly. Add water enough to make it hold wet, then press out in form of hand.

Her First Biscuits

The Randalls were newly-weds. More than that, they were strangers in a strange town. Dick had just been sent to Cleveland to be the local manager of the Howells Automobile Company.
"Well, Betty, how about some supper?" said Dick as he threw himself in a chair after a strenuous afternoon of unpacking. "I'm as hungry as the Russian army."
"I'm starved, too," sighed Betty, "but what shall I do? Aunt Mary said that if I didn't make biscuits with lots of butter and—"
"Not biscuits!" cried her wife. "Oh, Dick, I wouldn't dare—you'd never eat them."
"Sure I would," retorted Dick. "You can make them. Everything's here—four miles, and don't you remember that can of Ryson Baking Powder and the Ryson Baking Book that Aunt Mary stuck in the box at the last minute? Why hesitate?"

And the biscuits were good. Dick couldn't say enough in their favor and in praise of Betty's cooking. And as Betty went out in the kitchen to replenish the plates she smiled happily, remembering that old Aunt Mary, for remembering to put the Ryson in the box.

"Dear old Aunt Mary," for remembering to put the Ryson in the box. The new Ryson Baking Book (original price $1.00), containing 250 practical recipes, will be mailed, postpaid, for only 50 cents in stamps or coin. Or if you will purchase two or more pounds of Ryson, send us his name and address promptly. We will mail you a Ryson Baking Book free. Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette

"Downhearted." Do whatever you think will bring the greater advantage to your child. It seems to me that a divorce would be better than that home atmosphere which exists now. I realize that some men find plenty of intoxicating drinks and that they are no better off than before prohibition came. I believe, however, that there is to be ultimate gain. After 10 years of prohibition it will not be so easy to get them. Since your husband says he does not want you, he will probably be glad to give you up. Your former sweetheart shows that he is a good and honorable man since he wants to take you away from your present unhappiness and is willing to ask your husband to release you.

As a rule, you know, I do not advise a woman to get a divorce so that she can marry another man. But all you said, however, I believe that it is all right to do so in your case.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am not one who makes many friends. Since my high school days I have gone with and cared for only one young man. He has been my friend and comes to see me often. He has also gone with others, too, however. After graduating from high school I attended commercial school, where I met a girl who has been my closest friend since that time. We both work now and have our lunches together every noon.

One young man friend went to France as a soldier and only recently returned. My girl friend has never met him until lately because she did not grow up in this town but came here to attend school.

Naturally I wanted to have my two dearest friends meet and so I arranged to have them at my home for dinner. My girl friend is very pretty and hearty and the attention from men her heart could desire. I never dreamed that she would take more than a friendly interest in the young man for whom I care so much.

One meeting was enough. The two have been going together ever since, which is two months now, and my young friend has not been to see me since the night he was at my home for dinner. I try not to show it, but life is almost unbearable for me now. I really do not blame the girl friend for what she did. She is just pretty and irresistible. The thing that breaks my heart is to hear about the good times they are having.

AMERICAN OARSMEN TRAIN FOR BRITISH

London, June 22.—The big squad of American representatives of the Union Boat Club, all of whom are Harvard University oarsmen, having established their headquarters at Henley on the Thames, had their first practice there on Saturday. In their initial spin the eight tested their new boat. The crew seemed to be in fine condition, and displayed excellent form, giving promise of their proving to be formidable competitors at the Royal Henley regatta which will begin June 30 and end July 1.

"KITENS GROW UP TO BE CATS."

My brother got a kitty-cat,
 So little it could hardly run;
 It was an awful pretty cat,
 And gee, it was chuck full of fun.
 It chased its tail and played with us
 And chewed up string and rolled
 A ball,
 And never seemed afraid of us
 Or mad or tired out at all.
 But after while it grew a lot,
 And seemed to get stuck up and Proud,
 Pretended that it knew a lot,
 And when we'd call it, just me-owed.
 And I don't know, but maybe cats
 Are all like our, but it's a fact
 It went and got some baby cats
 And then you'd out-its see it act!
 It had no more to do with us;
 It wouldn't play or chew up string;
 It made out it was through with us,
 And wouldn't purr or anything.
 The little cats would trot about
 And do all sorts of funny stunts.
 But gee, it just forgot about
 That it was just a kitten once.
 And if they'd start a scrap or two
 Where it was sleeping in the yard,
 They'd get a good swift rap or two
 And sometimes she would cuff 'em hard.
 Cats are like folks a lot, I guess;
 When I get at the pantry shelf,
 My mother's just forgot, I guess,
 That she was little once herself.
 It looks as though stush-funds can
 Influence the primaries, says ex-Sergt. S.O.L., but nothing seems to be Able to corrupt the Old Guard.

"GREATEST HIT GETTER IN BASEBALL" IS WHAT ALEXANDER CALLS THIS FELLOW

Rogers Hornsby in action.
 Grover Cleveland Alexander, who ranks as one of the greatest pitchers and wisest men in the game, gives due credit to Babe Ruth for being the greatest slugger the sport ever has known, but avers that Rogers Hornsby of the Cardinals is the best hitter in the game. "Hornsby will get many more hits in a season than Ruth and can hit any kind of pitching," says Grover.

LAWN OF CEMENT ENDS GRASS CUTTING

Los Angeles.—A lawn that is not a lawn, but looks like a lawn and is said by its owner to be better than lawns—a waterless, mowless, weedless, gopherless lawn—in short, a cement "lawn"—has made its appearance in front of a Los Angeles bungalow.

Mrs. A. C. Woodward, inventor and owner, says it saves time, money and worry. She never has to water it. She never has to cut it; it is always dry enough to sit on—and it needs painting only once a year.

She has circular holes cut through the lawn and in them and along the edges she has flowers planted.

"I invented the cement lawn," she said, "because of trouble I had in getting a man to take care of my old grass lawn. It cost only $55.

"You don't know what a blessing it is," she continued. "Do you know, I believe there would be much less unhappiness in married life if the husband would use a cement instead of a grass lawn, and so avoid having to come home after work and run an old lawn-mower over the front yard every night."

Instead there will be competition during the second period of the regular encampment at which each company of 50 men will be allowed to send two competitors and companies with over that strength will be allowed to send one additional man for each additional 25 men in the company, or major fraction thereof, to compete for places on the team to go to Camp Perry in August.

TOBACCO ACREAGE IS ABOUT NORMAL

Fine Weather and Good Plants Will Bring Average up to 1919.

From information gathered by the Gazette from almost every corner of the county, it would appear that there will be only a slight shortage in tobacco acreage this year. The Edgerton section reports an average crop. Interviews by the Gazette representative with twenty of the largest growers and many more with smaller producers brought the information that there would be a crop of 1919 plants, for acreage of 1919 plants.

Orfordville Average Less. Around Orfordville there is a less acreage, in fact only about 25 percent will be planted if the present conditions go for anything. The plants are fine and with the excellent weather of the past few days it may stimulate the planting of additional acreage. With hopes for a higher price than last year for the crop, acreage is likely to be raised here and there. Weather conditions have not been better. The dry spell followed by the heavy rains have made planting conditions all over the tobacco section, the best in years.

Plant beds have been steamed generally and there are few yellow plants to be thrown away.

In Janesville, the raising of last year's crop is almost complete though some of the warehouses will be busy for several weeks yet cleaning up.

Reports from other tobacco growing sections are to the effect that the crop is normal. This is especially true of Connecticut and Pennsylvania.

Elwell Murder Mystery Deepens

New York.—The mystery surrounding the murder of Joseph B. Elwell apparently is as far from solution as ever. The murder presents a fastidiously studied crime and crime detection. It contains all the elements that make such studies alluring—deep mystery, wealth, an atmosphere of high life, good-looking women, secret meetings, races, cards for big stakes, and, at the end, death by an unknown hand.

A summary of the characters involved, and of the action preceding the tragedy, is herewith presented:

Known Characters.

Joseph Browne Elwell, the victim, 44 years old, long separated from his wife and young son, lived in a private residence at 255 West 70th street. He was an international authority on the game of bridge, and a player of exceptional ability, often winning thousands at a sitting. He owned the Dutch stable of race horses, runners of mediocre class. He played the market in Wall street with varying luck, but always seemed to have plenty of money. His chief interest was in women. He had many affairs, being suave, witty and entertaining, and possessing a fascination for the other sex. Women frequently visited his house. Several had keys for its front door.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lewisohn, his friends, who live at No. 987 Fifth avenue, the husband being of the wealthy banking and brokerage firm of Lewisohn Bros.

Viola Kraus, good-looking young divorcee, friend of Mrs. Lewisohn. She is a sister of Mrs. Lewisohn.

Sigmar P. Figueroa, a young journalist from South America, friend of the Lewisohns.

Victor Von Schlegel, former husband of Viola Kraus and acquaintance of Elwell. Had bachelor apartment which figured in the divorce obtained by his wife. Had affairs with women, which caused the divorce.

A Young Woman (name withheld by the police), friend of Von Schlegel.

Mrs. Helen Derby Elwell, wife of the victim. Got $200 monthly allowance from him. Separated in 1916. Richard Elwell, aged 15, son of the victim. Had been in preparatory school and had not seen his father in years.

Mrs. Marie Larson, Elwell's housekeeper, who went to his house each morning to keep it in order and who discovered him dying June 11.

The slayer, who disappeared, carrying away an army .45 automatic pistol. There is no indication whether the slayer was a stranger or infamous woman, or a husband, father, brother, lover or being gambler with a grievance against Elwell.

A Newsboy, who sold Elwell a sporting paper early on the morning of June 11 in the vicinity of 42d street and Broadway.

Friend of Elwell's, who drove him home in a high-powered roadster, arriving at the Elwell home at 2:45 a. m.

Chauffeur of a taxi or private car which may have taken the slayer to Elwell's house and away from it after the shooting.

Two Men and a Woman, with whom Elwell dined at the Cafe Montmartre, 50th street and Broadway, between shortly after 2 a. m. and 3:30 a. m.

The Known Action. Viola Kraus, having recently obtained a decree of divorce from Victor Von Schlegel, takes part in a dinner on the night of June 10. There are present, besides herself, Elwell, the Lewisohns and the South African journalist, Figueroa. They dined at the Ritz-Carlton. They were all familiar with the place. It was frequently patronized by Von Schlegel, Viola Kraus's ex-husband. It was no surprise to any party, apparently, that Von Schlegel and a young woman guest were dining a few tables away last very night, June 10.

After dinner the members of the party went from the Ritz to the "Midnight Frolic" in the roof theater of the new Amsterdam, 43d street, west of Broadway. They saw the show, and Elwell, danced with Mrs. Lewisohn and Miss Kraus. They departed between 1:30 and 2 o'clock a. m., June 11.

The Lewisohns and their guests, Miss Kraus and Figueroa, went home in a taxi. The last they saw of Elwell he was turning right, apparently toward another taxi.

But he did not go right home, though he might have taken a taxi. He went to the Cafe Montmartre, where he met two men and a woman, with whom he appeared on friendly terms.

A rather noisy motor car of the roadster type stopped in front of Elwell's home at 3:45 o'clock. A Kentucky. A sporting sheet lay close by. Elwell was pajama-clad. A single empty shell from a .45 automatic pistol was the only trace left by the murderer.

The Unknown Action.

What was the exact procedure of Elwell after leaving his friends? Did he buy a racing paper, look it over for odds, as a racing man would? Did he then go, either alone or by taxi, to the Montmartre to dance, feeling wide awake and not tired?

Whom did he meet there? Were the "two men and a woman" old friends or chance acquaintances of a cabaret? Who was the man who drove him home in the roadster and said "goodnight" without leaving the machine?

What did Elwell do upon entering the house? Peruse his paper further, then get into his pajamas? Was there some one there waiting for him? Did he undress first, then sit down to smoke and read? Was he interrupted by a caller, say, within half an hour after his arrival home?

Whom did he admit to his house? Or who used a key, already in his possession, to enter? Were Elwell's movements shadowed throughout the night? What time was the shooting? He was found at 3:40 and could not have lived long with such a wound. What did the slayer do after firing? What became of the pistol?

What was the motive? Vengeance of a man whose woman Elwell had won? Punishment by a relative of a wronged girl? Revenge by a disaffected or injured woman? Hatred by one who had lost to Elwell large sums at gambling? Some motive not hitherto taken into account at all?

Allied Conference Takes Action To Curb Nationalist Move.

(By Associated Press.) Boulogne, France, June 22.—Greece was given a free hand in the military measures in Turkey which were decided upon at the Hythe conference Sunday, according to information here today. The premiers and their advisers found these measures were required immediately because of the grave situation resulting from Mustafa Kemal's nationalist forces reaching the Dardanelles.

British Troops Concentrated. French and British troops and the British fleet will be concentrated for the defense of Constantinople and the straits.

The delegates to the Hythe conference, it is declared, were of the opinion that the taking of these measures would be sufficient to deal with the situation.

Premiers Lloyd George and Millerand, accompanied by Marshal Foch and M. Francois-Marsal, French minister of finance, arrived here this morning from Folkestone. In the morning Premier Venizelos of Greece. The arrival of the two premiers completes the delegations which will participate in the conversations here today and tomorrow. The Italian and Belgian representatives having arrived during the night. M. Venizelos will participate in the sessions of the conference at which the question of Turkey and Armenia are discussed.

Premier Venizelos will formally offer in the name of Greece to take the mandate from Armenia and he will participate largely in all other discussions of Turkish questions. The James Manufacturing Company contributes to the success of the most basic of all industries—AGRICULTURE. The market is the best in the world—the AMERICAN FARM. ER. Through the enlarged production of barn equipment the new factory WILL HELP SOLVE THE FARM LABOR PROBLEM.
